FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Local teen dies following Monday crash

A local teen succumbed to injuries sustained following a single car motor vehicle crash that happened Monday night.

On October 9, 2017, just before 9:00 pm, Shreveport Police responded to reports of a single car crash in the 5000 block of Flournoy Lucas Road in west Shreveport. Officers arrived and located the car and victim, Jaylin Sloan, 17, of Shreveport. Officers learned that Sloan had been ejected from his vehicle after his car left the roadway and hit several culverts. He was transported to University Health Hospital with life threatening injuries. On Wednesday, October 11, 2017, Sloan died as a result of his injuries.

Investigators with Shreveport Police Department's Crash Investigations Unit launched their investigation. Information gathered at the scene suggested that the primary contributors to the deadly crash were Sloan's failure to maintain control of the vehicle and his lack of use of a safety restraint device.
