DNA results lead to arrest in cold case

Shreveport police have arrested an alleged suspect linked to a 2012 cold case.

On January 19, 2012, just after 8:30 am Shreveport Police patrol officers responded to an attempted burglary call in the 4000 block of Doris Avenue. Upon arrival, the victim advised officers that he heard banging noises coming from his kitchen that woke him up. When the victim went to the kitchen to find out what the noise was, he found his kitchen window broken out and came face to face with an unknown male suspect. The intruder fled the scene and the victim was able to give officers a description of the suspect and a direction of travel.

While on scene, officers located and collected evidence linked to the suspect. The evidence was submitted to the North Louisiana Crime Lab for analysis for DNA testing. The DNA results came back to 26 -year-old, LaDarrel Jefferson.

Jefferson was arrested and booked into Caddo Correctional Center on November 5, 2018 with a $50,000.00 bond for one count of Attempted Burglary of an Inhabited Dwelling.
