Hundreds of Shreveport residents vaccinated at incentive sites

The City of Shreveport announced an initiative to give $100 to unvaccinated residents, who get fully vaccinated against the coronavirus.

Community vaccination events were held on August 7 at A.B. Palmer and David Raines community centers. LSU Health Shreveport administered doses of the Pfizer vaccine to 259 people. Shots were given to 161 people at A.B. Palmer and 98 people at David Raines.

Participants can pick up a $50 check during business hours on Wednesday, August 11 at Government Plaza. The second vaccination will be provided at the same locations on Saturday, August 28. Program registrants will receive a second check for $50 at the site where they received their first dose.

The funding for the vaccination incentive program comes from the American Rescue Plan.
