City of Shreveport Public Works Department Hosts Hands-On Career Pop-Up at Woodlawn High School

The City of Shreveport's Public Works Department is bringing careers to life for local students with an interactive Public Works Pop-Up at Woodlawn High School on Friday, April 4, from 1:30 PM to 3:00 PM. Led by Public Works Director Jarvis Morgan, the event will showcase the department's vital role in keeping the city running. Students will have the opportunity to engage with Public Works employees, explore the heavy-duty equipment they operate daily, and learn about exciting career paths available within the city—no college degree required.

"This is a great chance for our young people to see firsthand that there are good-paying, meaningful careers right here in Shreveport," said Mayor Tom Arceneaux. "Public Works keeps our city moving, and we want to inspire the next generation to take pride in these essential jobs."

Public Works crews will be on-site to demonstrate the specialized tools and vehicles they use for road maintenance, drainage management, sanitation services, and more. Students will be able to ask questions, see how the equipment operates, and learn about employment opportunities within the city.

"We want students to know that they can build a successful career in Public Works, right in their own community," said Jarvis Morgan, Director of Public Works. "This is an opportunity to see the kind of work we do every day to serve Shreveport and how they can be a part of it."

The City of Shreveport is committed to workforce development and ensuring students have access to career opportunities that provide stability and growth. Events like this pop-up serve as a bridge between local talent and city employment. The Public Works Department plans on hosting these career pop-ups at different high schools throughout Shreveport in the coming weeks.
