Shreveport man injured in morning shooting

A Shreveport man escapes serious injury following a morning shooting in Shreveport's Caddo Heights neighborhood Wednesday.

Just after 11:00 a.m. on October 26, 2016, Shreveport Police patrol officers were called to the 4100 block of Fairfax Street relative to shots being fired in the area. On officer's arrival, it was learned several shell casings had been discovered expended in the roadway after suspects fired multiple rounds at a man who was walking nearby.

According to information gathered on the scene, the suspects were traveling in a tan, four door sedan, possibly a Chevrolet Impala, when they began firing shots at the victim, 21 year old Treyshawn Bogan. Bogan, who ran from the scene on foot, suffered what appeared to be a minor graze wound to the leg, for which he was treated on the scene. Shreveport Police detectives are working at this hour to gather information on who the suspected shooter is in the incident and have reason to believe the shooting was not a random act. Persons with any information about this crime are urged to contact Crime Stoppers at (318) 673-7373 or visit their website at www.lockemup.org
